Framework for Strategic Innovation

31 May. Innovation does not, for the most part, just happen. In order for companies to stay ahead of the curve and keep developing fresh ideas, innovation must be nurtured. The most important thing for it to work is how closely it is integrated into the business's core strategy. If it is not, an organisation's innovation efforts risk descending into an incoherent set of autonomous processes and structures that are working at odds with one another, wasting time and money, and ultimately ...
